

Lincoln Room: University of Illinois Library, Memorial the Class of 1901 (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from Lincoln Room: University of Illinois Library, Memorial the Class of 1901 The year Nineteen Hundred and Nine is memorial year for Abraham Lincoln, in which many phases of history concerning him and his times will be considered, and the nations sorrow at his untimely death may justly claim a place. We read his speeches with pleasure, laugh at his jokes, take pride in his statesmanship, glory in his manhood, marvel at his patience, and are glad to honor his memory, while we almost forget the somber mountings from which the gems gleam. During the period when the American public is, specifically, reviving the Lincoln memories, it is proper to attempt, in a slight degree at least, an appreciation of the colossal sorrow which culminated in the death of the Emancipator.
