CRIME OF THE CENTURY The Lindbergh Kidnapping Hoax by Gregory Ahlgren and Stephen Monier After it was announced that the twenty month old son of Charles and Anne Lindbergh was abducted on March 1, 1932, the entire world grieved for their loss. Seventy-two days later, the body was found in the woods next to a roadway, a short distance from Lindberghs house, near Hopewell, New Jersey. In 1927, Lindbergh was the first to fly solo across the Atlantic in his Spirit of St. Louis. By 1932, he was perhaps the most famous man alive. A great American hero, he was allowed to be the chief architect of the investigation into his sons kidnapping. He demanded that the body be cremated without an autopsy. This book traces the 2? year investigation by the New Jersey State Police, headed by Colonel H. Norman Schwarzkopf, and which led to the arrest, trial, conviction and execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann. It challenges the effectiveness of the investigation, and the evidence advanced by the prosecution, which convicted Hauptmann. More importantly, it dissects evidence previously overlooked of Lindberghs own role in his sons disappearance, which, in combination with the authors expert analysis, leads to a new and bold assertion as to who actually committed the Crime of the Century.
