

The Farm: Memories of Life in Rural New York

Upstate New York, 1972. Ed Sobolewski, first generation son of Polish immigrants, decides his family of 11 has outgrown their 3-bedroom home and wants to move his family to the country. His wife Donna and nine children leave their pleasant life in Whitesboro to begin a new adventure on The Farm. The only thing is, none of them has ever lived on a farm, or knows anything about animals or farming. How hard could it be? Each chapter was written by one of the nine brothers and sisters, to share the memories with each other and to pass them on to all the children and grandchildren. Put yourself in their manure-covered boots, learning how to be a farmer, renovating an old house and taming the land. Hunting, fishing, gardening and a barn fire! And just how does an electric fence work? Come along on a country adventure, as they share childhood memories.
