

Just Add Water: A Floating Communal Experience, Sailing in the Dodecanese Islands of Greece

Captain Tom, filmmaker Tom Weidlinger, has been sailing since childhood and is a certified skipper. He is also a patient teacher and commander, and a professional producer. He spent months organizing the logistics, recruiting the crew, and putting together a sailing itinerary for a sailing charter to sail amongst the Greek Dodecanese Islands in the Aegean Sea, off the coast of Turkey. The 2 week charter ran from September 21 to October 5, 2013. Photographs and itinerary comments are compiled from all six participants to document our groups peak experience. Here is an example of a temporary floating community that led to a permanent bond. Six friends embark on a two-week, bear-boat charter in the Greek Dodecanese Islands. only one the skipper and his partner had previous sailing experience. The book follows the adventure of three couples that knew each other somewhat and liked each other very much when they set out, but had never spent much time together. The beauty of the experience is that after days in close quarters - learning to sail, enjoying the sea and wind, coping with delays of weather and ship failure, illness and fear amid laughter, singing, and joy - at the end of the sail the salty dogs had formed a deep bond. Upon returning home they like each other even more than when they set out.
