

Black Horizons: One Aviators Experience in the Post-Tuskegee Era

As a poor African-American youngster picking cotton in a 1930s Tennessee field, U.L. Rip Gooch would look to the sky as airplanes flew overhead and think about escaping to a better life. Soon after World War II, he earned his pilots license with Chief C. Alfred Anderson, but found that racist hiring practices among airlines and other companies did not allow employment of black aviators, even those who gained fame as Tuskegee Airmen. Rip fought back using business principles instead of violence. In time he built a million-dollar aviation business selling Mooney Aircraft in the Air Capital of the World (Wichita, Kansas), accrued 20,000 flight hours, and became one of the few black politicians in one of the most conservative states in the nation. *** As told in this book, the life of Rip Gooch has been a combination of joys and sorrows, challenges, opportunities and successes. - George Haley, former U.S. ambassador to Gambia and brother of Roots author Alex Haley
